Estate of Daniel James Marsh, died 14 March 2026: where we are

Dear Elena,

You asked for everything on one page, so the box below is the whole story. The pages that follow give the detail for your records and for your wealth manager, who you have asked us to copy.

- Probate was granted to you and me as executors on 9 September 2026.
- No inheritance tax is payable on Daniel's estate. Almost everything passes to you, which is exempt, and the gifts to Tom, Ivy and Tidewatch Trust fall within his tax-free allowance.
- Still to do: pay the legacies, transfer the yacht to Tom, put the Saltmere cottage fully in your name, and collect Daniel's share of the sale money held back by the buyer (due from March 2027).
- Your own position needs attention. Your 2019 will leaves everything to Daniel and should be replaced now. At today's values, inheritance tax on your own estate could be about M$7.3 million.
- Target: estate accounts finished by 30 June 2027.

EXECUTORS AND THE WILL

Daniel's will is dated 4 November 2019. It appoints you and me as executors. Probate was granted by the Meridia High Court Probate Registry, Port Calder, on 9 September 2026 (grant no. PR-PC-2026-08817). Under the will:

- Tom Marsh receives M$100,000 and the yacht "Ivy May" (clause 4).
- Ivy Marsh receives M$100,000 (clause 5).
- Tidewatch Trust, registered charity no. MRC-1093, receives M$50,000 (clause 6).
- You receive everything else, the residuary estate (clause 7).

PROGRESS SINCE MY LETTER OF 30 MAY 2026

- Joint accounts at Calder Private Bank and Linden House passed to you by survivorship and are now in your sole name.
- The Meridia Marine Pension Scheme paid you Daniel's death benefit of M$620,000 on 22 July 2026. It is outside the estate and not taxed.
- We paid Daniel's capital gains tax on the 2025 sale and his final income tax from his sole account at Calder (70402219) on 31 July 2026.
- Property and the yacht were valued in September and August 2026; see the separate schedule of 21 October 2026.

INHERITANCE TAX ON DANIEL'S ESTATE

ITEM	M$
Net estate	8,130,925
Less: passing to Elena (spouse exemption)	(7,785,925)
Less: gift to Tidewatch Trust (charity exemption)	(50,000)
Chargeable: gifts to Tom (M$195,000 with the yacht) and Ivy (M$100,000)	295,000
Nil-rate band available	500,000
Inheritance tax payable	0

Daniel used 59% of his nil-rate band, so 41% (M$205,000 at today's band) transfers to you and can be claimed against your own estate. We filed the inheritance tax account (form MIT-400) on 16 October 2026 and expect clearance by January 2027.

An estimate for planning only, at today's values and rates. If you leave at least 10% of the taxable estate to charity, the rate falls to 36%.

WHAT I RECOMMEND NEXT

1. A new will, now. Your will of 4 November 2019 leaves everything to Daniel, so at present your estate would pass under the intestacy rules. I suggest a meeting in November to agree new terms, including your wishes for Tom, Ivy and Ivy's baby, due in January.
2. Lasting powers of attorney for property and for health, so that Tom or Ivy can act for you if ever needed.
3. The giving fund in Daniel's name. A donor-advised fund, for example the Daniel Marsh Coastal Fund with the Meridia Community Foundation, can receive gifts now and make grants to Tidewatch Trust over time. As you sit on the Tidewatch board, we should record how conflicts are handled.
4. Gull Cottage for Ivy. Once the assent is done, a gift or a trust for Ivy and her children can be considered. Please read the planning points in our property schedule first; the seven-year rule and capital gains tax both apply.
5. Regular gifts from income are exempt from inheritance tax if they are regular and leave your standard of living unchanged. Your wealth manager can confirm your surplus income.

I know this has been a hard year, and that you have said more than once that you cannot lose what Daniel built. Nothing here needs a rushed decision. I will telephone on Tuesday morning to talk it through.

With kind regards,

Priya Nair
